There are many reason people choose to hack facebook or other social networking sites. There happen to be some real reasons behind this. But also there are some not so serious issues too to hack facebook. Still, people do this. The benefits or the reasons behind hacking are many. Some of them are like:

It is learning:

Mostly there are school or college students who hack different social media accounts. First of all, they do this out of curiosity and to check their ability. Students share each other's activities and try to teach each of them. They do this to learn the process to hack. And most of the time they perform this activity with their own friend's accounts.

It's fun:

When the students learn how to hack then they use to do this for fun. They use to hack their classmate's account or teacher's accounts too. Even they compete with each other to hack accounts in the minimum time. Here the advantage of hacking plays the role of fun for students and nothing else.

Let's you know about any person:

The main advantage of hacking someone's account is to know about the person. They can be your girlfriend or boyfriend or someone whom you have recently met. People choose to hack accounts to know very personal details about the person. As hacking the account also let the hacker know about the share messages and data of the victim.

To protect your children:

Sometimes parents choose to hack their children's Facebook account just to be sure whether they are in any wrong way in life. As facebook or internet has many advantages they have many disadvantages too. And such disadvantages work with children most. So hacking gives the benefit to watch out your children's online activity.

To track any culprit:

Even government officials hack and choose ways like continuer de lire sur: pirater-un-compte-fb.com against criminals. Though there are government cyber cells that protect and look after on all the social activities of people when it comes to any particular criminal they hack their profile. Hacking helps those to track the criminal's present location and many more things. So here the advantage of hacking is really high.

To increase online traffic:

Another advantage or reason to hack facebook is to increase online traffic. People who run business and have online web pages they sometimes hack Facebook accounts to increase their monthly traffic. Though not the owner him/herself does this they hire professionals for that.
